STATE HELP FOR JOPLIN

Governor Folk to Send One of Hadley's Men for Prosecutions.

Joplin, Mo., July 23.—Governor Folk here yesterday stated that in compliance with the request of City Attorney Clark Nichols he would assign one of Attorney General Hadley's assistants to help in the prosecution of thirty men arrested Monday on gambling charges.

While the governor did not express the probable choice for this assignment, a suggestion was made that Assistant Attorney General Joan Kenrich, who has been working in St. Louis recently, be named. Should he come here, an effort will be made to induce him to use the same tactics.

The arrests were made by the combined forces of Sheriff Parker and City Marshal Myers, upon information secured by City Attorney Nichols, who has had spies in the places raided for several weeks.

A TRULY GRAND OLD MAN

CARDINAL GIBBONS, OF THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH OF AMERICA.

REACHED 74TH BIRTHDAY TODAY

Was Born in Louisiana July 23, 1834, but in Infancy Was Taken to Ireland, Where He Was Given Splendid Education.

Baltimore, July 23.—Cardinal Gibbons, the "grand old man" of the Roman Catholic church in America, is 74 years of age today. Friends, colleagues and admirers of the primate of the American hierarchy all over the world sent messages of congratulation.

The cardinal was born in Louisiana July 23, 1834. In his infancy he was taken to Ireland, where he received his early education. Returning to America, he graduated from St. Charles college, and on June 30, 1861, was ordained a priest. He made rapid advancement and in 1868 was consecrated bishop and vicar apostolic of North Carolina. In 1877 he succeeded to the see of Baltimore. In 1886 he received the crowning honor of his life, and tribute was paid to the American church by his elevation to the college of cardinals.

With all his learning and attainments, Cardinal Gibbons is one of the most modest of men, and is dearly beloved by the priests under his charge and thoroughly admired and esteemed by citizens of every creed. The personal habits of the cardinal are of the simplest character. His daily life is one of incessant activity, and viewing his age and slight frame, the wonder is how he can accomplish so much. He is an early riser, getting up not later than 5:30 in the summer and about 6 in the winter. He usually says the 7 o'clock mass, celebrating almost every day, even when he is at the seaside in warm weather. After his mass he spends a short time in thanksgiving, and then goes to his breakfast. Afterward he reads his newspapers, and he never neglects the baseball column, and then he attends to his correspondence. When this is finished he gives an hour or two to his literary work. Notwithstanding his frequent interruptions, the cardinal manages to accomplish a great deal.

Visitors begin dropping in soon after 9 o'clock. The ecclesiastical business of the archdeacon is something enormous. There are priests to see about their affairs, some belonging to the city, others to the country. Secular callers also come in great numbers, and on some mornings every parlor in the residence contains three or four. The cardinal is swift and business like in his dispatch of affairs—always cordial and smiling, but showing the dull test that he has not much time to spare. He passes from one parlor to another, dressed in his dark soutane and upon his head the little scarlet skull cap—the iron gray hair, the pale intellectual face and the penetrating glance beneath. His eminence seldom forgets anyone whom he has met although he does not always remember names. As soon as he appears in the doorway the visitor arises and goes to him, and if a Catholic kisses the large amethyst ring, slightly bending the knee. The obedience is not, as some Protestants imagine, an act of idolatry, but merely signifies assent to the cardinal's spiritual authority and obedience to Rome. It is the etiquette, and, like everything else in the Catholic church, has come down through the ages.

The visitor's business is now related. The cardinal is quick of apprehension, listens courteously, occasionally asking questions, and in a few minutes the matter, whatever it may be, is settled, and his eminence passes on to the next caller. In this way a dozen or more persons will be seen in a very short time, and many things disposed of and difficulties cleared up.

On a fine morning the cardinal will sometimes take a walk down the street to the Catholic book stores, where he looks over the latest new books and magazines, and then to the Mirror office, where he gets such newspapers as he desires to examine. He returns home in time for dinner, which is served not long after noon, and a little later he lies down for a while, especially if he has had a tiring morning. At 3 o'clock visitors begin to come again, and he is kept busy in one way or another until toward evening, when he goes out for his constitutional. This evening walk is a Roman custom, followed by nearly all ecclesiastics. The cardinal is generally accompanied by some one, sometimes by a student of the seminary, again by a visiting prelate or a priest, and as he goes through the crowded street, with his black hat, under which the red skull cap barely shows, and the long frock coat, thousands recognize the beloved man. It may be truly said that everybody knows the cardinal. He is as great a favorite with the majority of Protestants as with the members of his own faith. A number of Protestant clergymen are among his personal friends, and it is seldom that any public man of note visits Baltimore without calling at the archiepiscopal residence to pay his respects to the head of the Catholic church in this country.

The cardinal's home routine is frequently interrupted by the necessity of travel. He is obliged to visit churches to administer confirmation; in June he attends many commencement and he goes upon long journeys to take part in jubilees and important church functions. It is wonderful how much he contrives to get through. He is a man of intense activity, as may be conjectured by any one who will observe him, for instance, in a railway station waiting for the departure of his train. He does not sit down and study the crowd, but he is moving about constantly, recognizing acquaintances, chatting, incessantly in motion. Wherever he may be, the cardinal is seldom out of bed after 10 o'clock, and the regularity of his habits is the secret of his ability to accomplish so much and his good health. While he is not robust, he is wiry and has an immense capacity for labor. He is an extremely moderate eater, and on Sundays often sings the high mass, which obliges him to fast until nearly 2 o'clock. His voice is not sonorous, but it is sweet and penetrating, and easily fills the cathedral. He is fond of music and encourages congregational singing.

As a preacher he is always learned and interesting and often eloquent. His sermons he writes out in advance, but he is also a good extempore orator. Having been so long accustomed to figuring in public affairs and conducting the great affairs of the church, he is never flustered or nervous, but when he arises to make an address is composed and fluent. The marvel is that his sermons should be as good as they are, since he is subjected to so many interruptions and can scarcely call an hour his own.

Cardinal Gibbons is one of the most democratic of men, plain, unostentatious, and distinguished for good sense in everything he does. Although wise and shrewd, he is free from the slightest shadow of dissimulation. He hates double-dealing in all its forms. He is extremely charitable and his income does not meet the demands upon it. By no manner of means is he a rich man, and the public would be surprised to know how much he is obliged to spend in charity. Many are the things he pays for "out of his own pocket," as the expression is, because he can not refuse, and of which few know but himself.

NEW WOMAN IN GOULD CASE

Alleges Proposal Was Made to Damage Husband.

New York, July 23.—Location of a woman witness, Miss Blanche Hale, a hairdresser in the Lincoln hotel, where once lived Miss Julia Fleming, was an important development yesterday in the charges against Mrs. Ben Teal, Miss Fleming and Henry S. Mousley, a private detective that they had conspired to obtain false testimony to aid Mrs. Frank J. Gould in her suit for divorce.

Miss Hale, in a declaration to Assistant District Attorney Harr alleged that a proposal similar to that made to Miss McCausland was made to her in March last. It is understood she told Mr. Harr that she was to testify that she saw Mr. Gould in a compromising situation with Bessie Devoe, an actress, in her apartments in the Glenmore hotel.

Harr and Miss Hale both declined last night to give out what the woman had revealed.

Miss Fleming was unable to obtain a bondsman, and remained in the Tombs.

MEMORY OF CHAMPLAIN

TO BE HONORED TODAY AT THE QUEBEC TERCENTENARY CELEBRATION.

HISTORIC SCENES ARE REPRODUCED

Alex P. Owen, the Old-Time Sedalia Yardmaster, Would Give a Good Deal if He Could Be in Attendance.

Quebec, July 23.—As the principal feature of the Quebec tercentenary, the memory of Champlain will be honored today by a reproduction of the historic scenes in which the great explorer participated 300 years ago, while the Prince of Wales, Vice President Farbanks, Earl Grey and distinguished men from Great Britain, the United States and France, as well as thousands of Canadians, applaud the spectacle.

The Champlain of today, aboard a vessel that is an exact reproduction of the quaint Don de Dieu, with the lofty poop and strange tackle of the days of Sir Walter Raleigh and the Sea Beggars, will sail up the St. Lawrence this afternoon to the spot where the real Champlain stepped ashore among the elm trees skirting the dock on a day of July 1608. Many of the striking features of that scene—the impressiveness of the rock itself, the floral attire of the river banks, the white falls of the Montmorency—will impress the newcomer much as they impressed Champlain; but the pageant ship will pass, in full sight of tens of thousands, through an avenue of warships honoring the representative of the lonely voyager of 1608 by a salute in the name of five different nations.

The procession which will escort the founder of Quebec up the rock to the Upper Town represents to a peculiar degree the homage of three centuries. There will be Breton sailors of Cartier's day; the courts of Francis and of Henry of Navarre; Dollard and the heroes of the Long Sault; the discoverers Joliette, La Salle, and Maisonneuve; the white regiment of Carignan-Salieres; Frontenac with his brilliant staff and sovereign council; Montcalm and Levis at the head of their famous regiments of Guine, Bearn, La Sarre, Languedoc, Roussillon and Berri; Wolfe and Murray with the Highlanders and the other famous regiments under their command; Guy Carleton and the defenders of Quebec in 1775; de Salaberry and his three hundred Voltigeurs de Chateaugay. Fifteen banners designate the different divisions.

Following the arrival of the mimic Champlain, will take place the presentation of the civic address of welcome to the Prince of Wales and other official ceremonies, commemorative of Champlain and of the founding of Quebec. The prince and other distinguished men will review the historic procession in front of the Champlain monument.

This evening there will be an illumination of the combined fleets and of the surrounding country, with a magnificent display of fireworks from the Heights of Levis, opposite Quebec.

SOTHERN FILES DEMURRER

Actor Will Contest Wife's Suit for a Divorce.

Reno, Nev., July 23.—Edward H. Sothern will contest his wife's suit for divorce, which was filed in the district court Tuesday. The fact that the case will be contested was evidenced when attorneys for Sothern filed in behalf of the actor a demurrer to the suit filed by his wife's attorneys Tuesday.

The demurrer, like the complaint, is a sealed document, and nothing could be learned of the contents of the instrument or on what grounds a contest will be made.

FORGETS ABOUT KILLING MAN

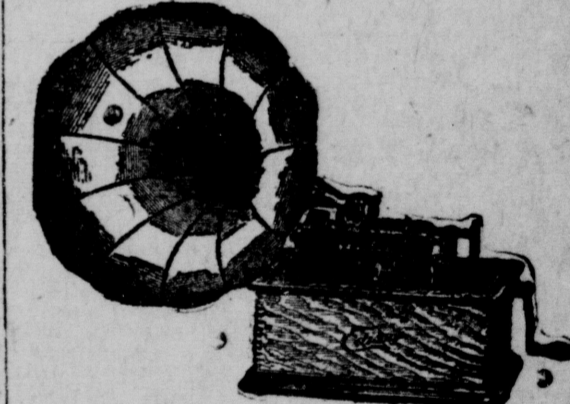

Cripple in Jail Pleads Ignorance of Shooting.

Johnstown, Pa., July 23.—Frank Paddaux, 28 years old, was shot and killed and Bert Bland, 20 years old, probably fatally injured Tuesday night at West-Y-Glo near here, by Chester Gibson, 19 years old, a cripple, who stated in jail yesterday that he did not remember the shooting.

It is said that Paddaux and Gibson had been drinking and meeting Bland requested him to buy some sandwiches. A dispute followed the young man's return with the food and Gibson shot Bland.

In attempting to get possession of the revolver Paddaux was killed. Gibson was later arrested by Constable Bland, father of the injured man.

SUPERSTITION HARD TO DOWN.

Level-Headed City Men Fight Shy of Number Thirteen.

Of all classes of people, the business man has been justly given credit for being the most balanced and the least subject to emotional influences. Yet superstition occasionally shows itself in the commercial world in a way that is often very disconcerting to the realist.

"Have a thirteenth floor in this building?" queries a part owner of one of the famous office buildings in New York. "Never! The thirteenth floor is sometimes difficult to rent; tenants would prefer to go higher or lower."

"The 13 hoodoo affects more other-wise sane men than is acknowledged. Many of the most famous business buildings in the country have no thirteenth floor—the fourteenth story follows the twelfth. By following this plan we take the least risk. As the names of tenants are arranged alphabetically on the directory the omission is seldom noticed."—System.

RIDES ON WATER WAGON

MIKE DONLIN, OF THE NEW YORK
GIANTS, IS ON HIS GOOD BEHAVIOR.

GETTING MARRIED DID THE WORK

Took an Actress for a Bride, and She Made a Different Man of Him—
One of the Best Batters in National League.

Roger Bresnahan is worried, says the St. Louis Times. He fears that Mike Donlin won't be with the Giants next season, and minus M. D. the Giants are not a whole lot more impressive than the Cardinals or Superbas.

Bresnahan honestly fears that Donlin is going to cut out baseball at the expiration of the current campaign, and, as Bresnahan is one of the powers that be in the New York club, such a momentous thing grates on his feelings.

"Honest Injun," muttered Roger in the rotunda of the Planters hotel Tuesday morning, "young Donlin has us worried. He used to flirt a little with the suds, also with the wealthy water, and would go out of his way to disturb a gent's whiskers or poke some husky on the jaw."

"But he's living the simple life now; in fact, has been a peaceful citizen ever since he married. As a result, he's no longer a 200-pounder. He hits the scales at around 165 and is as fast as a bullet. I've seen a good deal of him since he's been a big leaguer, but don't believe he is this summer."

"His conduct is so good that he gets on his high horse every time he sees a chap as much as one-quarter intoxicated. He does so much preaching to the gang every time he pipes at a booze wrestler that we all fear he'll soon give up baseball for temperance lecturing. Maybe he will imitate 'Billy' Sunday and turn evangelist. He certainly has us worried."

NEED FOR IMMEDIATE ACTION

Alonzo's Good Reason for Striking
When the Iron Was Hot.

As Alonzo came into the drawing room the fair Gwendoline flew to meet him.

"Darling," she murmured, "papa has changed his mind. He has consented to our engagement."

"Oh, joy!" exclaimed the young man, hugging her. "But why?"

"Well, Louise, please, pet, you know father believes in heredity—that wise parents have wise children, and so on. Now, my father has never met any of your family, but last night, at a vestry meeting, father opposed a motion in favor of the docking of tom cats' tails. When it was put to the vote, only father and one other man was against. Alonzo, that other man was your father. My father now thinks your father a very wise person and desires the honor of his acquaintance! Isn't it scrumptious?"

A look of determination came across the youth's fair face.

"Gwendoline," he said, "we must be married before our fathers meet."

"Why? Surely your father doesn't drink, or anything like that?" was the amazed response.

"No; only he's stone deaf!"—Stray Stories.

THE LADY AND THE DETECTIVE.

Startling Statement That Really Called for an Explanation.

Mrs. "Jack" Gardner of Boston has taken up the Audubon society's war against the hat of many feathers.

"This hat is the worst omnivorous creation that the milliners have yet given us," she said at a recent dinner. "The number of things required to trim the hat is frightening. Its appetite, in fact, reminds me of a police court episode."

"A detective was testifying in the case of a woman shoplifter whom he had arrested in her bedroom."

"And, your honor," he said, "when I told her the charge, she turned her back to me and swallowed a purse, six suits of silk underwear, a silver candlestick, a chafing dish, and—"

"Rubbish! Are you crazy?" the magistrate interrupted.

"Excuse me. What I mean to say, your honor," explained the detective, is that she swallowed the pawn tickets."

New York Described by New Yorker.

New York is the dirtiest of the world's great cities and the noisiest, and the skyscrapers on which we pride ourselves are making its streets the darkest on God's footstool. Hitherto, however, we had been able to look upward—from the footstool to the throne, so to speak—and catch glimpses of the sky and of the sun or the moon, especially if we happened to be passing through a park or square. But even of this resource we are now being robbed. What with the dirt, the din and the darkness, to say nothing of the everlasting quick fanch, strap hanging, steep lively scramble of our daily lives, it is small wonder that money is to be made by advertising remedies for shattered nerves and es-establishments for making men over." But even such advertisers could not pay the city a price that would justify it in selling its open spaces for such use.—Letter to New York Sun.

Quite the Contrary.

"Gentlemen," said the campaign spellbinder, as he began his speech, "in the words of our illustrious chief at Washington, who said: 'Speak—'"

"Louder!" yelled a score of voices in the back part of the hall.

"Not at all, gentlemen," said the orator, visibly irritated. "He said, as every well-informed person knows: 'Speak softly,' even while carrying the big stick. If I am interrupted again—here he waved the chairman's gavel aloft—"I shall use the big stick unsparingly!"

Having thus asserted himself, and silenced the rude persons who had been guilty of the unseemly interruption, he resumed his speech.

Successful Hypocrite.

Gruignoli, the son of a fisherman, a priest in a rich abbey in Florence, had a net spread every day on the table of his apartment to put him, as he said, in mind of his origin. The abbot dying, this dissembled humility procured Gruignoli to be his successor, and the net was used no more. A friend who came to see him the day afterwards, on entering his apartment, said:

"Where is the net?"

"There is no further occasion for the net," replied Gruignoli, "when the fish is caught."

Traveler—Here, landlord, what's the matter with your dog? I've driven him away a score of times, but he always comes back again and sits close up to my armchair watching every mouthful I take. Do turn him out and let me have my dinner in peace.

Landlord—Please, sir, my Carlo is such a knowing brute. I expect you have got the plate he generally eats off.—Stray Stories.

THE GODS OF WAR

By MARJORIE BENTON COOKE

(Copyright.)

The day was like a spring song—sweet and clear. It seemed incredible that just over the mountain ridge the gods of war stalked the earth. Along the road that led from Nashville came a rider at a gallop. Suddenly the road led into a wood, and, as if involuntarily, the rider pulled her horse to a walk; she sniffed the good earthy smell of the warm June day rapturously, and leaned over to pat her horse's neck.

"Good girl, Betsy, good girl! We've earned a little rest here in the woods. Luck's with us to-day, so we'll risk it."

She slipped out of the saddle, stretched her tired limbs, and walked slowly on, Betsy at heel. Finally she turned and patted Betsy's nose.

"We must be on our way, Betsy, if we're to make Shelbyville to-night. Hark!"

There was a sound of horses' hoofs, clear and distinct, on the road behind. The girl's face went crimson, then white.

"Betsy, my girl, we're in for it now—it's too late to make a run!" Stealthily she drew a packet from the folds of her waist. She sat down on a hollow log, into which she slipped something, which she then covered with loose leaves. Waiting, she sort of flowers in her lap. Nearer, nearer came the hoof beats. Then all at once they stopped.

"What does that mean, Betsy?"

She peered down the path anxiously. A rider appeared, looking like a young centaur, coming through the woods. He was tall and black-browed, with a boyish face; he sat his horse splendidly. He came slowly, his eyes fixed on the girl and the wild flowers. If he started slightly at the sight, it was but natural.

"Good evening!" she replied.

He pulled his horse to a standstill and dismounted.

"Isn't it a bit lonely in the great green woods for a lovely lady?" She smiled down at him.

"Not now."

A boyish smile flashed across his stern face.

"Is there no one to tell you that it is not safe, these troublous times, for you to be wandering alone in the woods?"

"No one."

"Then I tell you."

"Thank you!—I'm not afraid."

"It's not a question of being afraid; it's a question of foolishness. At any moment a detachment of ruffian soldiers may ride this way."

She glanced down the road hastily, then at the log, and up at him.

"I've always been foolhardy," she replied.

Their eyes met and clashed, then he threw his head back and laughed boyishly.

"I believe you," he said. "Well, at least, fair Rosalind, you should keep Celia with you for company."

"Perhaps I could find an Orlando," she hazarded.

"I know a chap who would like the job, but neither love nor law could keep him here—just now. Do you know, by the way, how much you look like one of the sweetest Rosalinds that ever trod the boards?"

"You mean?"

"Pauline Cushman."

"Oh, yes, I've been told that I'm like her."

"She's left the stage, you know, and gone into the confederate service."

"Yes? I live so far out of the world that I know but little of what occurs."

"You're a southerner?"

"Obviously."

He picked up one of the flowers that fell from her lap.

"What is this queer flower? Has it a name?"

"Oh! yes. We call it bleeding heart."

"Bleeding heart! I wonder why the heart bleeds? Why do you suppose it broke?"

"Why do hearts usually break? Perhaps it was a loyal heart which broke at the declaration of war."

"Perhaps—it broke for love," he said softly.

"Perhaps," the girl's voice echoed.

He folded the flower away in an envelope. The girl arose.

"I must be off."

"In what direction do you go?"

"Straight ahead. And you?"

She nodded. Suddenly, as they mounted darkness fell about them, a rumble of thunder and a crash of lightning announced the nearness of a swift, oncoming storm.

"There's a house near by," the girl called, touching Betsy's flank. The man sprang into his saddle and was after her in an instant; when she looked back at him the lightning lit up his smile. At the edge of the wood there was a hut. Drawing up, she struck the door with her crop. After some hesitation the door opened a bit.

"Who is it and what do you want?"

"All right, Mother Cleary, let us in out of the wet."

"Oh, you!"

The door was opened wide; the girl dismounted.

"Run in. I'll tie the horses," called her companion. She hesitated the shade of an instant; then threw him her bride and went in.

"Who's he?" said the old woman.

"A friend. My name is Margaret Dale for to-night. Ask no questions." She turned as he entered.

"Mother Cleary will give us shelter. Mother Cleary, this is—?"

She lifted her eyebrows and "Jack Stuart—Mother Cleary, at your service."

"Same to you," said the old woman, shortly.

"And now, what's in the larder?"

He disappeared into the outer darkness to get some wood to start a fire.

"Is he worth, or ain't he?" asked the old woman.

"Don't ask questions. We'll be rid of him to-night; or, if not, I'll be off ahead of him in the morning."

Once at the table they ate like hungry children. Without, the storm blew and beat; within, the fire crackled. Mother Cleary sat and blinked at them in silence. Finally he rose from the table and went to the door.

"Ladies," he said, "I fear we are here for the night."

"Ye might do worse," said Mother Cleary.

"There is some word to send, perhaps?" he said, looking at his companion.

"No."

"Can you give me a shake-down, mother?"

"In the loft," grunted the woman, and curling up on a heap of straw, she fell asleep.

The girl sat before the fire; the man stood looking down at her intently for several minutes. The passing shadows on her face caused by the flames and flickerings brought out the delicate, womanly quality of her beauty.

"Why do you do it?" he asked, at last.

"Do what?"

"This daredevil work you're at to-night. Let the men do it, if it must be done."

"You mean?"

"I mean that I've traveled 50 miles after you. Now that I'm here, I'd rather be at the end of the earth."

"You speak in riddles."

"Maj. Pauline Cushman belittles her wit."

"Maj. John Morgan overestimates the enemy's wit."

"Not for one moment! You've known me all the time?"

"Yes. And you?"

"I knew you the minute I looked at you. I saw you play Rosalind once."

She rose and faced him.

"And now?"

"I'm sorry; but I'm under orders to get the papers you have on your person."

"And failing in that?"

"I must take you prisoner. But I shall not fail."

She dropped back in her chair with a faint smile.

He took her hand, observed its delicacy and lifted it to his lips.

"You are a brave woman," he said, "and I love bravery better than anything in this world."

"Praise from a brave man is sweet, Jack Morgan."

He arose.

"And now, I know you're tired and need rest. If you'll give me the papers I've come so far to find, I'll say 'good night' and climb to my sky parlor."

"I have no papers to give you."

"It is a sad duty that makes me say 'must' to you. Ah, Pauline, if only things had fallen out otherwise. What sacrifice the gods of war exact!"

"Let's say 'good night.'"

"Not until I have those papers. Would you have me spirk my duty? Those papers mean much to my general."

"What of my duty? The letters mean much to my general."

"You defy me, then?"

Her voice rang out.

"Yes, you and all the whole, cold-blooded, interfering, busy-body north! All of you! I hate, and scorn, and defy you!"

There was a dangerous light in Morgan's eyes.

"The papers—quick!"

"Never!"

Like a flash he threw his left arm about her, thrust his right into her blouse and seized the packet she had concealed there.

"Oh, my dear, I'm sorry!" he murmured. He kissed her lips and was gone.

Pauline stood one minute where he left her, hysterically laughing and crying, then she followed to the door, her revolver drawn. As he clattered down the road, waving a farewell, she slipped the weapon into her holster, called a word to Mother Cleary, and climbed into her saddle.

"Quick, Betsy, quick!" she whispered, "we've fooled him for a little but he'll be back again, and he mustn't find us. Back on our tracks! We'll beat him yet!"

The moon had come out in full splendor. As she rode at breakneck speed, the woman looked like the spirit of the night—reckless, triumphant. Back she rode over the muddy path, into the shadow of the trees.

"Slowly, Betsy, let's pick our way, and not miss the tree. It should be here. What's that?" she ended sharply, as her horse fell back on the haunches.

"It's only I, sweet lady," answered a man, rising from his knees beside the fallen trunk. "I found out my little mistake, and I recalled how anxiously you looked back at the log. So I came after something without troubling you."

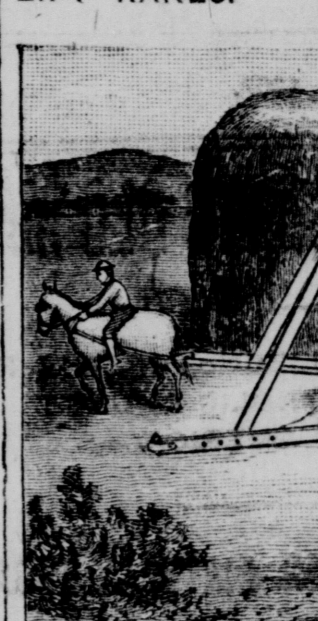

He held up a second packet, like the first. Then across her saddle he laid the fading spray of bleeding heart.

"A sacrifice to the gods of war!" he said, softly.

She watched him gallop away through the woods.

Pressed Clear Through.
Children have a very fair idea of what constitutes justice, and decidedly object to being punished more than they think they deserve. A bright, little seven-year-old committed some trifling misdemeanor and was taken to task very seriously by her mother. After listening some time in silence, Mabel said: "What makes you keep talking to me so, mamma?" "Because," replied the mother, "I want to impress it upon your mind so that you won't do it again." "Well," was the response, with the faintest quiver of grief in her voice, "I think I'm pressed clear through now." What could the mother do but conclude that the lesson had been sufficiently "pressed" for the time being, and send the little culprit about her play?

VALDA, MO.

Valda, July 21.

J. H. Warren was transacting business in Sedalia yesterday.

Our farmers are very busy putting up hay at present.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Young had as their guests last Sunday Mr. Robert Anderson, wife and daughter.

Mrs. Sallie Elliott Curtis visited the past few days with her sister, Mrs. James Meyers near Green Ridge.

Don't forget the ice cream social at W. D. Elliott's next Thursday night.

A. M. Boyd and wife spent Sunday afternoon with Charley Wingate and family.

J. H. Warren and wife and Charles Chrisman and wife ate ice cream with William Anderson and family, Sunday afternoon.

Miss Reba Shaeffer returned home Sunday, after a two weeks' visit with her friend, Mrs. Asa Elliott.

Miss Irah Anderson returned home Sunday afternoon, after a few days' visit with her cousin, Mrs. Grover Meunt, in Kansas City.

J. H. Warren had the misfortune to lose a valuable mare today, she having killed herself trying to jump out of the hallway of the barn.

Miss Amy White is attending the Baptist assembly at Pertle Springs this week.

Miss Hannah Knutz was a passenger out from Sedalia Monday morning.

Mr. J. B. Van Dyke, the well known assessor, is calling on the Valda people this week.

Corn in this vicinity is very much in need of a soaking rain.

Warren G. Stephens is in Sedalia working in the shops.

One application of Manzan Pile Remedy, for all forms of Piles, soothes, reduces inflammation, soreness and itching. Price 50c guaranteed. Sold by W. E. Bard Drug Co.

Diamonds Burn Like Coal.

The jeweler, at closing time, was putting his diamonds in a huge safe. "But why do you bother to do that when two watchmen walk the shop all night long?"

"On account of fire," the jeweler replied. "Diamonds are nothing but coal—carbon—they burn beautifully. Their hardness makes us think them indestructible, but, as a matter of fact, a fire of diamonds would be the briskest, prettiest thing in the world. Put a handful of diamonds on a plate and set a light to them. They will burn with a hard, gemlike flame till nothing is left. There will be no smoke, no soot and at the end the plate will be as clean as though just washed—not the slightest particle even of ash will remain."

Last Words of John Quincy Adams.

The dramatic death of John Quincy Adams on the floor of the house of congress gave the writers of his day an opportunity for putting fine words in his mouth and rearing another historic hero. At that time Dr. W. A. Newell was a member of congress from New Jersey, and subsequently became governor of his state. He was the first to reach the stricken man as he knelt to the floor.

Dr. Newell later in life insisted that Adams' last words, spoken to him, were:

"This is the end; quick, a little brandy."

Which doesn't accord with popular histories of the event by a long shot.

Had One Drawback.

"My!" exclaimed little Billy, as he gazed at the lithograph. "I'd like to be a giraffe. Just think how easily you could rubber over the basefall fence."

"That's right," replied Tommy, "but there's another time when you wouldn't want to have a neck like a giraffe."

"When is that?"

"Why, in the mornings when your ma begins to scrub your neck with soap and water."

Self-Accusing.

"I don't believe you know much about farming," said the patronizing man who had just settled in the neighborhood.

"No," answered Mr. Cornstossel. "I kind of think I don't myself. A man that knew much about farming wouldn't have bought a farm anywhere around here in the first place."

Exchange.

The Effect Spoiled.

"Refused you? Surprising! Did you walk with her in the moonlight?"

"Yes."

"And now you would gladly die for her?"

"I did; but just then some one yelled 'Hands up!' and I ran three blocks before her mischievous young brother caught me and told me it was only a joke."

Mean Joke of Doctor.

The celebrated French physician, Ricord, was one day walking along the boulevards in Paris, when he met an old gentleman who was very rich, but who was at the same time noted for his extreme stinginess. The old man, who was somewhat of a hypochondriac, imagined that he could get some medical advice from Ricord without paying for it. "Doctor, I am feeling very poorly," "Where do you suffer most?" "In my stomach, doctor." "Ah, that's bad. Please shut your eyes. That's right. Now put out your tongue, so that I can examine it closely." The invalid did as he was told. After he had waited patiently for about ten minutes, he opened his eyes, and found himself surrounded by a crowd, who supposed that he was crazy. Dr. Ricord, in the meantime, had disappeared.

After the Honeymoon.

"Boo-hoo!" sobbed Cynthia under her blue bonnet. "I don't believe you love me any more."

"Wall, I do declare," laughed Jason, as he washed the milk pails, "what put that idea into your head, little gal?"

"Why, before our marriage you used to honey me up and say I was as sweet as sweet cider and now you say I am sour."

"Oh, don't worry, pet. Even the sweetest of sweet cider turns to vinegar after a time."

37 IN ONE FAMILY FOR BRYAN

All Are Voters' Too, in Candidate's Native County.

Odin, Ill., July 23.—Among the possessions on which Marion county, the native county of William J. Bryan, prides itself is probably the largest family vote which will be received by Mr. Bryan at the coming election. The sons and grandsons of Joseph Deadmond, numbering thirty-seven voters, will all cast the straight democratic ballot.

The late Joseph Deadmond came to Marion county in the early forties and settled in Odin township. He has ten sons, all of whom are living, as follows: Allen, Andrew, Buford, Henderson, Jeremiah, John, James, Julius, Thomas and William.

Aside from the thirty-four members of this unique family who are voters and whose names are Deadmond, three of the grandsons, two named Arrowsmith and one Day, will vote the ticket headed by Mr. Bryan.

CREATION OF NEW MODES

IN THIS WORK THE DESIGNERS HAVE NOT FORGOTTEN LITTLE FOLKS.

A REACTION TOWARD SIMPLICITY

Present Day Fashions of the Grown-Up People Have a Perceptible Influence on Children's Garments

New York, July 23.—The designers have not forgotten the little folks in their creation of new modes. White clothes for little girls follow the fashions set for their elders, there is a marked reaction toward simplicity as against the elaborate styles seen for some seasons back. Daintiness is the keynote for all children's designs, and the favorite types of finish are hand-run tucks, insets of fine lace or sprays of fine embroidery, but the latter is used in small quantities and in small and neat designs. A finish of pale pink and blue lawn bands on white is an effective design much favored at present.

Attractive little frocks for girls are made from nainsook, batiste or Swiss muslin, trimmed with edgings sewed together in the middle and applied as a band trimming. These bands may pass over the shoulders as bretelles and be connected by the trimming at yoke depths, both in the front and back.

The present day fashions of the grown up people have a perceptible influence on the frocks of the children, and this is true not only in the cut of the little garments, but in their trimmings and in the materials employed. Thus in the frocks of this season a growing tendency to longer lines and princess effects is noticed—an echo from the fashionable world which, though remote, is quite a thing to be reckoned with in selecting the outfit for the little summer girl of this year. Almost all of the expensive lingerie frocks of Swiss, batiste and fine nainsook are along modified princess lines, and even where the little frock is made in two pieces, as is often the case, the insertings and frills are so cleverly matched in both portions of the dress that a look of continuity is the result.

While plain materials are always first choice for really dainty children's frocks, there are now shown some delightful little dresses of embroidered Swiss in small design which are more unusual and also more childish than the well known dot with which Swiss muslin always seems to be closely associated. There is also a decided interest among some of the manufacturers of children's frocks to utilize the fine cross-bar handkerchief linen in their construction. The fact that the fancy white fabrics are lovelier than usual this season perhaps accounts in great measure for the importance they have assumed in connection with children's apparel.

It is a fad with some fastidious women to dress their children, both boys and girls, entirely in white during the summer. White linen, duck or pique for boys' tub suits; white serge for his wool suits. This idea is a charming one, but impracticable, unless money is of no consequence, for white, to be attractive, must be immaculate white, and demands a tremendous supply of suite, constant changing and an indefatigable laundry. Even the mothers with their white fad put their tiny white-clad laddies into overalls or jumpers for rough play hours, and in this way the white suits are spared much.

The semi-princess effect is ideal for the use of the soft summer materials, the best effects being obtained when the waist and skirt are joined with a belt of the trimming material. The skirt is tucked in groups and joined to the blouse. The belt may be in round style or raised in the back in empire effect. The round yoke can be made of all-over lace or of the dress material embroidered, or of rows of insertion joined together. Five gores are used in the skirt and two wide tucks are made above the hem. The lower edge measures about three yards and seven-eighths.

This dress can be attractively made in a light weight linen, fine gingham, Persian lawn or dimity, batiste, cotton voile, China silk, messaline or rajah. The different varieties of Valenciennes lace are far and away the most suitable and babyish for these frocks, but there have been some pretty models shown this season trimmed with the finest of Cluny, and at least for novelty, this suggestion is not to be ignored. It washes perfectly and wears forever.

The light colored plaids and checks are usually trimmed simply with bands of the plain color which predominates, these bands often being outlined by a single row of narrow white soutache. It is also a pret-

Is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every taint or corrupting element. In this way it cures bloatedness, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood. If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated bowels, or suffer from sour or bitter risings after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, or dyspepsia and their attendant derangements.

The best agents known to medical science for the cure of the above symptoms and conditions, as attested by the writings of leading teachers and practitioners of all the several schools of medical practice, have been skillfully and harmoniously combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will but mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the standard medical authorities, giving the names of all the ingredients entering into his world-famed medicines and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them.

fy fancy to raid these plain colored bands in some bold effective design with the soutache, or else to stud these bands at intervals with disks made of the coarsely colored braid.

But it would be a mistake not to mention the more practical frocks of linen, percale, galatea and the different grades of gingham, which this season are as delightful to the eye as they are abundant in number. There is a special tendency just now to bring into prominence the gingham. Most of the frocks of this style are designed to wear with a white guimpe which also increases the light appearance. While such dresses are dark enough to meet the requirements of practicality, they are by no means somber in effect, for these new madras gingham have a brightness and luster about them which is eminently childish. Some of the loveliest of the pastel colors are also to be had in this material, plaided with cross checkings of white.

TRAGEDY AT A RALLY

The Sheriff of McDonald County Kills a Man.

Pineville, Mo., July 23.—Sheriff Thomas J. Parnell, of McDonald county, last afternoon shot and killed "Billy" Bacon, 24 years old, son of Wady W. Bacon, former sheriff and county collector, while he was resisting arrest upon a charge of disturbing the peace.

Sheriff Parnell surrendered to his chief deputy. The tragedy startled the hundreds that had gathered here to ratify the nomination of Bryan and Kern at Denver. Parnell is now serving his second term as sheriff. He is 40 years old and a democrat. His victim was 24 years old. He has three brothers and a sister. Both families are well known in Southwest Missouri, having resided here for years.

The shooting took place just as an automobile carrying Gov. Folk whisked into the court house square.

ONE WEAK SPOT.

Most Sedalia People Have a Weak Part and Too Often It's the Back.

Everyone has a weak spot. Too often it's a bad back. Twinges follow every sudden twist. Dull aching keeps up, day and night.

Tells you the kidneys need help—For backache is really kidney-ache. A kidney cure is what you need. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys. Cure backache and all urinary ills. Sedalia people recommend the remedy.

Mrs. M. Z. Holt, of 514 East Broadway, Sedalia, Mo., says: "My husband thinks there is no remedy equal to Doan's Kidney Pills. He suffered greatly from pains in his back, so severe at times that it was hard for him to do anything. When the secretions from the kidneys were allowed to stand for a time a reddish sediment would settle and at night their passage was much too frequent. The use of one box of Doan's Kidney Pills restored his health. I have not heard him complain of backache or other symptoms of his old trouble since using them. Only a few days ago I heard him advise a friend to procure Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. E. Bard Drug Co., and give them a trial."

S.S.S. A CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood, which is carried through the circulation to all portions of the system. Every muscle, nerve, bone and joint absorbs the acid, pain-producing poison, causing aches, inflammation, stiffness and other well known symptoms of the disease. Permanent relief from the pains and discomfort of Rheumatism cannot be expected from the use of liniments, plasters, and other external treatments which does not reach the blood, where the cause is located. Such measures give temporary relief, but in order to cure Rheumatism the uric acid and inflammatory poison must be expelled from the blood. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism because it is a perfect blood purifier. It goes down into the circulation, neutralizes the uric acid and drives it from the blood. S. S. S. expels the irritating, inflammatory matter which is causing the pain, swelling and other discomfort, enriches the weak, sour blood, and permanently cures Rheumatism. In all forms of Rheumatism, whether acute or chronic, S. S. S. will be found a safe, vegetable remedy, possessing the properties needed to cure, and at the same time a medicine that builds up the entire system by its fine tonic effects. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free to all who write.

BANDITS' DEADLY WORK

THEY SHOT ELEVEN PERSONS
NEAR BOSTON, MASS.,
LAST NIGHT.

TWO MEN AND ONE WOMAN FATALLY

A Fusillade of Bullets in Jamaica Plain Streets Mows Down Innocent Persons--Sensational Running Fight.

Boston, July 23.—At daylight this morning a man supposed to be one of the bandits who terrorized the Jamaica Plain district last night was shot and killed while in ambush in Forest Hill cemetery. His body was literally riddled with bullets from policemen's revolvers.

The second man was captured and identified as one of the two who shot up the saloon Tuesday night.

The Story of the Shooting.

Boston, Mass., July 23.—Two desperadoes, pursued by policemen and a crowd of citizens, fled for two miles through a thickly settled district of Jamaica Plain last night, firing right and left. When the smoke had cleared eleven persons were found to have been wounded. Three probably will die.

The bandits disappeared in the woods near Franklin park. The men are believed to have been two of the gang of three who robbed a man in Jamaica Plain Tuesday night, after shooting and killing one man and wounding two others.

Mrs. Della Fallon is one of the most seriously injured of last night's victims. She was standing in front of her home with her baby in her arms when the two men, pursued by a crowd, came down the street.

As they passed her one of them fired and the bullet entered her head behind her right ear. She was removed to the city hospital in a critical condition.

Herbert E. Knox, of Roselindale, night watchman at the Forest Hills cemetery, and Edward McMahon, a Dorchester patrolman, each received a bullet in the abdomen and are on the dangerous list at Emerson hospital. None of the others are believed to have been fatally injured.

It is believed that the desperadoes lay concealed in Calvary cemetery yesterday while the police were hunting for them on account of Tuesday night's holdup and robbery.

Being driven from their hiding place by hunger and fearing that they would be surrounded by the police who were searching the neighborhood, the two men appeared on Charles street in Jamaica Plain about dusk and proceeded to "shoot up" the town.

They looked like Italians and were roughly dressed. Some citizens who had been assisting in the hunt for the robbers saw the men and tried to intercept them, whereupon the two began running and with a revolver in each hand fired at every person in their path.

Throughout the residential district the front porches of the houses were thick with people enjoying the evening air, while the streets of the business section were filled with the usual throngs.

The appearance of the two desperate men, shooting to each side as they ran and shouting as if crazy, caused a general stampede for cover.

Michael Flynn stooped to pick up a stone as he saw the men coming toward him, and instantly one of them fired at him, the bullet grazing his ear. Another went through his hat. As the fugitives running along Keyes street reached Washington street, a trolley car came along.

"Hold up, you—" shouted one of the men, waving his revolver above his head. The motorman saw the brakes and the conductor, Thomas Moore, jumped off. Instantly he became a target, and a bullet entered his leg.

Across Washington street and along New Keyes street the robbers fled, with hundreds of men pursuing, and soon disappeared in Franklin park, shooting down Officer Cox, who tried to intercept them near the park gate.

As soon as possible a cordon of police, heavily armed with rifles and revolvers, was thrown about the park, while thousands of citizens gathered in the vicinity.

According to a small boy who saw the two men reloading their weapons in a sand hill near the park early in the evening, each man carried three revolvers.

Patrolmen McMahon and Thompson sighted the supposed Italians in the neighborhood of the park late in the evening and went down before their well directed fire.

At 11 o'clock the chase had passed beyond the park southward.

FIRE ESCAPE QUESTION

DEPUTY FACTORY INSPECTOR
MCQUIE QUOTES MIS-SOURI LAW.

'TIS NOT LIVED UP TO IN SEDALIA

Warning Given by Representative of State, and Unless Escapes Are Provided Prosecutions Will Follow.

James L. McQuie, deputy state factory inspector, in conversation with a Democrat-Sentinel reporter today, called attention to the public safety law of Missouri.

"This law," said Mr. McQuie, "requires the owner, lessee or keeper of every hotel, boarding and lodging house, tenement house, school house, opera house, theater, music hall, factory or office building in the state of Missouri, and every building therein where people congregate, or which is used as a business place or for public or private assemblage, which has a height of three or more stories, to provide said structure with stair escapes attached to the exterior of said building, and by staircases located in the interior of said building."

"An iron ladder fire escape does not meet the requirements of the law, as there is no provision made for that kind of escape."

"It is made the duty of the factory inspector to approve the means of egress in such places in case of fire or other disaster, and we must insist that the buildings heretofore mentioned be equipped with fire escapes in accordance with the law. There is a heavy penalty for failing to comply with this law."

Mr. McQuie has about completed his work in Sedalia, and goes from here to St. Louis.

MAY HAVE A CARNIVAL

The Sedalia Eagles Will Decide Matter Tonight.

J. H. Edwards, owner and manager of the Edwards Carnival Co., is in the city today, and tonight will meet with Sedalia aerie No. 601, F. O. E., with a view of arranging the preliminaries for a carnival to be given in this city this fall. The project will be discussed at the meeting.

Mr. Edwards was for a term of seven years connected with one of the Parker amusement companies, and severed his connection some time ago to organize a company of his own. Mrs. Edwards will be remembered as the lady who did the high dive "stunt" at the market house square during the last carnival in this city.

For a Young Lady Who Leaves Soon for Tacoma, Wash.

The Mission Band of the Central Presbyterian church surprised Miss Ruby Mullen, who leaves soon for Tacoma, Wash., at the parsonage of the church Wednesday afternoon as a farewell reception in honor of the young lady.

Fifteen guests were present, and a peanut hunt, fishing for sacks of popcorn and other amusements entertained the guests.

Refreshments of orange ice, cake and candy were served on the lawn.

A Shipment of Cattle.

William Martin shipped two car loads of fat cattle from Green Ridge to St. Louis last afternoon. They weighed 1250 pounds and will be on the market today.

TRAGEDY IN BALL ROOM

A JEALOUS LOVER SHOT SWEET-HEART AND ALSO RIVAL AT BATH BEACH.

THEN PROMPTLY KILLED HIMSELF

John Hanna Was a Member of the Hotel Orchestra and Was Extremely Jealous of 16-Year-Old Augusta Walz.

New York, July 23.—In view of more than 100 persons in the ball-room of the Fort Lowrey hotel at Bath Beach, Long Island, late last night, John Hanna, 30 years old, shot 16-year-old Augusta Walz, with whom he was in love, and Ralph Manz, 20 years old, with whom she was dancing.

When he saw his victims fall to the floor he turned the revolver on himself firing a bullet into his head and one into his breast. He died almost instantly.

The bullet aimed at the girl struck her in the mouth, but inflicted only a slight wound. Young Manz was wounded in the left side near the heart and may die.

Hanna, who was a member of the hotel orchestra, had been attentive to Augusta for some time and was exceedingly jealous of her.

Automobilists.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Gallie, 604 West Broadway, had a narrow escape from being run down by an automobile, in addition to being insulted by two careless and irresponsible automobilists, in the vicinity of the Gallie residence at 11 o'clock Tuesday night.

Mr. Gallie and his good wife were returning home from the Chautauqua, seated in a trolley. An automobile, occupied by two men, running fully twenty-five miles an hour and poorly lighted, whizzed up the street, grazing one wheel of Mr. Gallie's vehicle.

The latter cautioned the occupants of the machine who emphatically requested him to go to h—

Lost Second Child by Death.

Alice Smith the two and one-half year-old daughter of D. S. Smith, an M. K. & T. car repairer, and wife, died of stomach trouble at her parents' home, 627 East Thirtieth street, at 2:30 o'clock this morning, and was buried in Crown Hill cemetery this afternoon, after Rev. T. R.

Gray had conducted funeral services at the family residence at 2:30 o'clock.

On June 28, last, Mr. and Mrs. Smith lost their 7-year-old son, Lloyd, due to the same illness.

Master Richard's Birthday.

Mrs. Richard Waddell entertained over thirty young folks at her home, 403 East Seventh street, from 4 to 6 o'clock last afternoon in compliment to her son, Richard, Jr., who celebrated his fifth birthday anniversary yesterday. Games and music were the features of the event, after which ice cream and cake were served. The guest of honor received a number of birthday presents.

ANOTHER MURDER CASE

PRETTY WOMAN VICTIM OF NEW YORK CITY'S LATEST MYSTERY.

IDENTITY OF THE DEAD NOT KNOWN

Policeman Was Attracted by the Shot and Ran to the Scene, but Was Too Late to Catch Sight of the Murderer.

New York, July 23.—Another murder mystery has been added to the long list of unsolved cases that are now baffling the police of New York and vicinity.

Early yesterday the body of a pretty young woman was found in a tool shed in Irving park, Williamsburg. She was shot through the breast and had been killed almost instantly.

Although a policeman heard the shot and ran to the scene, he was too late to catch sight of the murderer.

The latest murder is far more puzzling than the Drew or Eberhard cases, for not even the identity of the victim is known.

That she was either lured to the tool house or went there to keep a clandestine engagement with a man seems certain.

She was trimly dressed, but wore no hat and carried a dainty parasol.

Mrs. Williams Goes to Denver.

Mrs. J. A. Williams, of Joplin and formerly of Sedalia, left Joplin yesterday for Denver, Colo., for the benefit of her health. Mrs. Williams was formerly Miss Mattie Fickle, of Sedalia. She was accompanied to Denver by her son, Alfred, and her sister, Mrs. Emma Sullivan.

Messrs. Williams and Sullivan, who are in business in Joplin will follow their wives to Denver in about a month and will reside there in future.

FIFTEENTH HUSBAND OF MRS.
PHOEBE TOWNSEND IS SEEKING DIVORCE.

SHE HAS 8 DEAD AND 7 ARE LIVING

Been Married So Many Times, She Says, That She Cannot Name All of Her Spouses or the Dates of the Weddings.

Fremont, Neb., July 23.—The fifteenth husband of Mrs. Phoebe Townsend, of this city, has filed suit for divorce from that lady, alleging cruelty as a cause.

Mrs. Townsend has been widowed by the courts eight times in her life, and widowed by death six times.

Today she has eight former husbands living and six dead. When the last hubby secures his divorce there will be nine of her former husbands on earth.

Mrs. Townsend has been married so many times that she can not name all of her husbands, much less give them in the order in which they entered her life.

But until the present petition was filed she had never been sued for divorce, the suits heretofore having always been filed by her.

THE PRINCE ARRIVED

England's Heir Presumptive Presided at Celebration Today.

Quebec, July 23.—The arrival of the Prince of Wales today was the signal for the official opening of the celebration commemorating the 300th anniversary of the founding of Quebec by Champlain.

The Prince presided in person over the opening exercises, receiving the foreign representatives at the foot of the Champlain monument and reviewing the historical pageant reproducing Quebec's history.

The Chautauqua Grass Cutting.

C. F. Ernst president, last night authorized the Democrat-Sentinel to state that the Rev. Caskey was in error when he stated that the reason the grass at the Chautauqua grounds was not cut was because the park board objected.

"We wanted to cut it," said Mr. Ernst, "but Mr. Caskey, of the Chautauqua, objected, and whatever blame attaches for the shortcoming should be shouldered by the Chautauqua assembly and not by the park board."

At last night's meeting of the Chautauqua Rev. Caskey publicly announced that the blame rested upon the Chautauqua and not on the park board, he evidently having received information in refutation of his quoted utterances in the Democrat-Sentinel last afternoon.

Death of Leonard Burk Freely.

Leonard Burk, the six-month-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Freely, died at the home of its parents in Columbia, Mo., Tuesday afternoon, after an illness of six weeks of stomach trouble. Burial took place Wednesday at 2 p. m. in the Columbia cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Freely formerly lived in Sedalia. The former worked in the M. K. & T. shops, and the latter was employed in the telephone office before her marriage. Mrs. Freely was Miss Ethel Bryant. Both Mr. and Mrs. Freely have many friends in Sedalia.

QUITS THE COMMONER

All Profits Made From Now Until the Election Will Be Given to the National Committee for Its Use.

Lincoln, Neb., July 23.—It was announced today that Mr. Bryan has retired from active work on the Commoner and will not be personally responsible for matter appearing in it during the present campaign. Chas. W. Bryan will be publisher and Richard L. Metcalfe, now associate editor, will be the editor, at least until after the election.

The following statement was issued by Mr. Bryan relative to the change in the editorial staff:

"My candidacy makes it necessary for me to suspend editorial work and I desire to have it known that I should not be held personally responsible for matter appearing in the Commoner during the campaign, except that which shall appear over my signature."

"All profits from the Commoner over and above the actual expenses from now until the election will be turned over to the democratic national committee for the benefit of the campaign."

Discussed Southern Situation.

Fairview, Lincoln, Neb., July 23.—The political situation in the south was the subject of a prolonged discussion today between Mr. Bryan and Josephus Daniels, national committeeman from North Carolina. In view of the claims of the republicans, as reflected from Hot Springs, Va., that they were counting on the states of North Carolina, Georgia and Virginia, considerable importance was attached to the visit. The conclusion was reached that those states were impregnable against republican assault.

Will Strive for Negro Vote.

Fairview, Lincoln, Neb., July 23.—The determination of the democrats to capture the negro vote of the country was further emphasized today when Mr. Bryan told a delegation of negroes from Lincoln that it was his desire that they should get in touch with their brethren everywhere and particularly in Ohio and agree upon a line of campaign in behalf of the democratic ticket.

ON THE WAY TO TEDDY

Presidential Candidate Will Hold Important Conference.

Washington, July 23.—Mr. Taft passed through Washington, en route to Oyster Bay, early this morning, and Sagamore Hill will be reached by automobile from New York this afternoon, when an important political conference is scheduled to take place.

The presidential candidate will leave New York for Cincinnati early Friday afternoon.

Christian Workers' Conference.

A conference of Christian workers, under the auspices of the Missouri Presbyterian assembly, will be held on the campus of Missouri Valley college at Marshall, Mo., from Tuesday to Sunday, August 18 to 23, and several Sedalians have signified their intention of being present.

MR. LAWSON ANSWERED

OPPOSING CANDIDATE REPLIES TO YESTERDAY'S COM-MUNICATION.

LEAVES MATTER TO THE PEOPLE

Mr. McGruder Says if Episode Is Satisfactory to Mr. Lawson and People of Pettis, It Is Satisfactory to Him.

Editor Democrat-Sentinel:

Mr. Lawson's insinuation that I have scattered his record broadcast over Pettis county is to me as humorous and ridiculous as is his silk tie hat to the average lawyer. I hardly believe his staunchest friends could picture me so dense as all that. The fact is, he jumped into print before I had the opportunity, had I the inclination, and now I say to him, that if his own explanation of his Kentucky and his Ohio episodes is satisfactory to himself and the people of Pettis county, there is no reason why it should be unsatisfactory to me. Now, if Mr. Lawson has been persecuted, both in Ohio and Kentucky, as he says he has been, I for one don't intend to see him persecuted in Missouri; and if he has other episodes that he can explain with as much detriment to himself as he has this one, I shall be, as we have heard before, "delighted."

I say further to Mr. Lawson, that if in the thirty years of my existence he can show the process of any civil or criminal court directed against me, I will bow down and worship him, but at this writing I don't see fit to do that.—Mark A. McGruder.

DEATH OF THE REV. THOMAS

For Two Score Years He Was a Popular Baptist Divine.

Rev. B. T. Thomas, father of Logan C. Thomas, owner of the Thomas Printing company, and for forty years a Baptist minister, died from the effects of a stroke of paralysis, at his home at Aullville, Mo., at 9 o'clock this morning.

Early yesterday he was stricken, and he grew gradually worse until the final summons came today. He was 86 years old and had resided at Aullville for a score of years.

Besides the son, Rev. Thomas is survived by his wife and two daughters, as follows: Mrs. Eva Hill, of Kansas City, and Mrs. Rilla Velt, of Pryor Creek, Okla.

Funeral services will be held at Aullville at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, and burial will be made there. Rev. F. Y. Campbell, of this city, will likely officiate.

EXCITEMENT IN TENT

While Candidate Was Speaking Bomb
Was Exploded.

Chicago, July 23.—A bomb was exploded in a tent in which Governor Deneen was addressing a political meeting at Garfield boulevard and Princeton avenue, in this city, last night. Women screamed and many fainted, and a wild rush for the tent doors resulted.

It is thought that the perpetrators intended to take advantage of the excitement to rob the people in the audience.

WILL ASK REHEARING

United States Attorney Will Ask for Another Trial.

Chicago, July 23.—United States District Attorney Sims today announced positively that a petition for a rehearing in the case of the government against the Standard Oil company of Indiana, which was decided adversely to the government in the court of appeals yesterday, would be filed at once.

Olympian Games Nearing Close.

London, July 23.—As the Olympic games draw toward their close the interest in the results increases. Today the final in the 200-meter flat race was won by Kerr, of Canada; Cloughen, of the Irish-American Athletic club, second, and N. J. Cartmell, of the University of Pennsylvania, third.

ATTACK UNCALLED FOR AND UNJUST.

Victor Hugo, the greatest dramatic author of modern times, in his masterpiece, Les Misérables, gave to the world a picture of man's inhumanity to man that has awakened in the hearts of thousands of readers of all nations a divine pity for a wronged and persecuted man that will exist as long as language is spoken and written characters read. The victim who suffered the supreme torture known to a great and loving heart, is known and spoken of in countless homes, by young and old, rich and poor, as fiction's most sublime martyr.

But a short time ago in Kansas City an episode occurred that aroused the indignation of an entire continent, and sent to Washington the largest petition for clemency ever received by a president of the United States, and forced from the community, ostracized and despised, the man who had given the world another Jean Valjean.

Today Sedalia has a spectacle almost the same. A citizen living here for over thirteen years, with his life work open to the world, in the public eye always because of his profession; urged by his friends to seek a public office, because of the eminent fitness he has demonstrated for the place, suddenly awakens to the fact that those opposed to him have gone back through the misty years, traveled hundreds of miles, delved through musty records in many courts, and have unearthed and scattered information that in his early youth he was accused of a crime, but ignoring the fact, of which they must have known, that those charges never culminated in legal proceedings; that the grand jury where the act was alleged to have been committed refused to bring an indictment, and that the court of another state, where the same charges were made, never even attempted to take the accused into custody, and, in fact, later, of its own volition, dismissed the proceedings.

Guiltless as he was of wrongdoing, and exonerated by the courts, this citizen must bear the odium of such accusation, with all the pain and humiliation which naturally follow, when by every law of honor and justice his good name should never have been assailed, and all because he aspired to fill an office within the gift of the people, and by thus aspiring stood in the way of those who would now brand him and his with shame and disgrace.

If such methods as these are to be used in political contests, if one's political ambitions can not be realized but by tearing down and dragging into the mire reputations and characters, causing suffering and tears to loved ones, blasting lives and ruining careers, then, indeed, it is time for the people, by strong and emphatic condemnation to show that the American spirit of fair play is outraged and insulted, and that those who use them shall feel the just indignation of a generous public.

No man stands higher in the public estimation than does C. C. Lawson, of Sedalia. He has been active in every line of duty and public service during the thirteen years he has lived here. He has been prominent in all efforts to build up the town.
There has never been a movement of public interest in which he has not been a worker and a leader, and there are hundreds who can testify to the greatness of his heart and his intense and earnest sympathy for and unobtrusive aid to the suffering poor.

His life has been clean and upright, honest, sober and elevating, and his career here, in rising by sheer ability and integrity, from poverty and obscurity to a position of prominence can be but an inspiration to others in the struggle of life.

Those who know him best admire him most, they admire him for his uprightness of character, strict devotion to duty, strong and self-sacrificing friendship and all the characteristics that go to make a good man.
That he should have been assailed in this manner is most regrettable, but it is safe to assume that he has suffered no loss of public esteem through the efforts to discredit him, but on the contrary, has won many friends by the manner in which he has met this most uncalled for attack upon his character and reputation.

SENATOR BALL'S OFFICIAL RECORD.

We invite attention to the official record of Senator David A. Ball in 1887 on railroad legislation, says the Gallatin Democrat. It will be remembered that the democratic state convention of 1886 declared for railroad rate regulation, and Senator George D. Vest made a ringing speech in its favor. Marmaduke was governor, Moorehouse was lieutenant governor and our own J. W. Alexander was speaker. Upon this trio of faithful public servants devolved the duty of leading the fight to redeem the party pledge.

The lobby swarmed about the committee rooms, the corridors and the chambers of legislation at Jefferson City like buzzards about a carcass.
Moorehouse, who ays every inch an honest man, appointed the senate railroad committee in the interest of the people. Alexander was equally fearless and faithful in the selection of the house committee.

Grim old John Marmaduke in the governor's office was as courageous in the contest as when leading the boys in gray during the civil strife.
It was a memorable conflict. Marmaduke, Alexander, Moorehouse, the house and a minority of the senate for the people.

On the other side, a majority of the senate lined up with the railroads.
Some of the senate majority, however, did not have the courage of the open fighter.

Guilt conscience and the fear of the people oftentimes suggested bush-whacking methods and dilatory tactics.
The official record, open to every citizen, tells this story.

It was the first great battle in Missouri after the war to abolish the abuses and discriminations and limit the charges of railroad corporations.
The people won a partial victory, and at the next election, in 1888, the rural democracy retired to private life practically every senator and representative who had faltered in the fight. Glorious old Senator Harmon, of Johnson county, fell at the post of duty, stricken with paralysis, but Hon. John Johnson, of Montgomery county, took the flag from his nerveless hands and carried on the battle. The record tells a part of the story of that historic struggle. We desire, however, to call to the attention of those not familiar with parliamentary procedure especially to the vote of Senator Ball on the bill reported at the regular session by the friends of railroad legislation.

When face to face with the bill and "cornered" he voted for it, and then at once nullified this vote by voting against Harmon's motion to "reconsider and lay on the table." A vote for the bill and a vote against a "motion to reconsider and lay on the table" are utterly inconsistent and contradictory and can only be explained on the theory that the vote for the bill was unsatisfactory to Ball himself. Obviously, this was true, as Mr. Ball followed this latter motion by a motion to postpone the reconsideration until the following Wednesday, which was carried by the opponents of railroad legislation.
When Wednesday came Ball was recorded "absent."

The St. Louis Republic correspondent on May 19, 1887, says: "Ball voted for senate bill 293, but has since taken occasion to say that he voted for it under protest."

Mr. Ball's action in introducing at the extra session senate bill No. 1, prepared by Judge Trimble, the lobby attorney of the Burlington railroad, also irrevocably identified him with the opponents of railroad legislation. But read the record in detail. It tells of Mr. Ball's attitude in the struggle for railroad legislation which resulted in his retirement to private life.

ADVERTISEMENTS, LIKE CLOCKS, SHOULD KEE PRUNING.

A store's advertisements tell the people what is "doing" at the store
—what is new, what is inviting, why today is a good time to visit the store. People look for the ads. to tell them these things just as naturally as they look at the clock to tell them the time.

Sometimes the clock does not run
—sometimes the store's ad. does not.
A "run-down" clock or ad. are about equally unsatisfactory, unserviceable, misleading.

Curious thing about it is that a merchant who would think it absurd to have a run-down or out-of-repair clock will, sometimes, deliberately let his ad. stop running. It's not wise nor "good business," nor defensible on any known grounds, but it's sometimes done.

Moon Regarded as a Deity.

Among the early peoples of Mesopotamia all of the heavenly bodies were regarded as deities, but the moon, because of the variety of the shapes which it assumes, was the chief of them all. Special reverence was therefore paid it and some of the oldest and most important of the Babylonian temples, as at Ur and Haran, were devoted to its worship.
Thus the crescent, the symbol by which the moon god was represented, was supposed to have the power to avert evil, and then together with the star it formed the word for incantation.

THOUGHT HE WANTED SNUFFBOX

Suspicion of Piper Not Very Flattering to His Grace.

At a dinner given by the marquis of Bute, among the guests was a well-known duke who, in full Highland dress, had his piper standing behind his chair. At dessert a very handsome and valuable snuffbox belonging to another of the guests was handed round. When the time came to return it to its owner, the snuffbox could not be found anywhere, though a very thorough search was made. The duke was specially anxious about it, but with no result. Some months afterwards the duke again donned the kilts for another public ceremony—the first time he had worn it since the above dinner—and happening to put his hand into his sporran he, to his utmost astonishment, found there the snuffbox which had been lost at the public dinner. Turning to his piper, the duke said: "Why, this is the snuffbox we were all looking for! Did you not see me put it away in my sporran?" "Yes, your grace," replied the piper, "I did, but I thought ye wushed ta keep it!"—San Francisco Argonaut.

GREAT RACE TOMORROW

FINAL PRACTICE ENGAGED IN TODAY BY MORE THAN THREE SCORE.

SEVENTEEN NATIONS TO CONTEST

Sporting Authorities Declare That United States Has Small Chance of Winning the First Honors.

London, July 23.—Final practice runs were engaged in today by the more than three score and ten athletes, representing the pick of the best long distance runners of seventeen nations, who will tomorrow contest for international honors in the Olympic Marathon run.

Wide differences of opinion exist among experts as to the probable winner of the great event. Sporting authorities declare that the United States has small chance of winning first place. Tom Longboat, the Canadian Indian, is looked upon favorably by many who have seen the red man in action. John Svanberg, of Sweden, has shown up well in the preliminary practice. Appleby, of England; Muller, of Germany, and Pietri, of Italy, have many supporters.

The Marathon was originally scheduled for Saturday, but was moved forward to Friday by the Olympic authorities. It was feared that if the race was held on Saturday, a half-holiday, the throng of spectators lining the course would be so great as to seriously impede the progress of the runners. As it is, the crowds at tomorrow's run will probably be the greatest that ever witnessed such an event.

Arrangements for policing the course have been made and every precaution has been taken to secure a fair field and no favor for all of the entrants. The course extends from Windsor Great park, the starting point, to the Olympic Stadium on the Franco-British exhibition grounds at Shepherd's Bush, a total distance of twenty-six and one-third miles.

From Windsor Great park the course leads along High street, thence across the Thames river bridge into Eton, past the college of the same name, and its playgrounds and along Windsor road until the High street Slough is reached. Then the road for London will be taken for several hundred yards when the runners will turn into Uxbridge road, over the Great Western railroad and through George Green until the Long Branch is crossed. After this the canal will be crossed and several other small twists made when the runners will enter Windsor street and later High street, Uxbridge. At this stage of the run more of the numerous twists and turns occur and Ickenham Village is reached.

When this village has become a thing of the past Ruislip village will be the next town to have the honor of the presence of the runners for a very short while. Then come East-cote, Harrow and Sudbury in order. By this time the runners will have completed about twenty miles of the run and will then be on practically the last stretch. More twists and turns of the smaller distances are in order until the exhibition grounds are reached. A special entrance will be made to these for the runners and the course through the grounds will be roped off. At the Clock Tower, Harlesden, all vehicular traffic will have to leave the contestants and take another route to the Stadium.

AS HE REMEMBERS DICKENS.

Senator's Recollection of Novelist on the Lecture Platform.

How Charles Dickens appeared while on the lecture platform in Washington, D. C., in 1865 is described in the "Memoirs" of ex-Senator Cole of California: "The lecture room was crowded, but I was favored with a seat near the front, where I had a fair opportunity to see and to observe some of the peculiarities of that great author. Mr. Dickens was dressed in a highly-fashionable evening attire, not all in dark colors, and in appearance rather foppish. His vest was of a hue to exhibit to the best advantage a heavy gold chain which extended from the middle both ways across his chest. His neckwear was of a cut and color to be called flashy. His hair was rather long and wavy, and was arranged to stand out at the sides above the ears. His features are well represented in the numerous pictures seen of him, and it will be observed they have quite a uniform appearance. He read single chapters, without comment or introductory remarks, further than to announce the work, as from 'Copperfield,' 'Nicholas Nickleby,' 'The Pickwick Papers' or 'Little Dorrit.' The book in each case lay open before him, but he paid little or no attention to the text."

Dinner at Thatcher's Ford.

The Sedalia Outing club will give another one of their famous out of door dinners next Sunday, on the banks of Flat creek at Thatcher's ford. This feast will be different from the others in the point of edibles that will be served, this time the bill of fare consisting of turtle soup, roast pig with apple sauce, roasting ears, baked potatoes, lemonade, etc. As is always the case everyone attending is sure of a good time. Conveyance will leave the court house square at 10 o'clock in the morning.

How to Help Our Friends.

We often attempt to regulate the lives of our friends through imposing our own wills upon them. This we do under the impression that our conception of truth is superior to theirs, and that we see more clearly than they do. This is really but a form of selfishness, and binds all who indulge in it, both the strong and the weak. Of course there is a point where a kind and friendly desire to help another may be productive of good. But when the desire to help another involves the subjugation of his spirit and understanding, then that desire becomes a selfish one. For you cannot force a knowledge of truth upon anyone. Only love and patience and living the truth yourself can bring it to the consciousness of your friends.—From the Nautilus.

The Argument of Gold.

A man who is furnished with arguments from the mint will convince his antagonist much sooner than one who draws them from reason and philosophy. Gold is a wonderful clearer of the understanding; it dissipates every doubt and scruple in an instant; accommodates itself to the meanest capacities; silences the loud and clamorous, and brings over the most obstinate and inflexible.

Philip of Macedon was a man of most invincible reason this way. He refuted by it all the wisdom of Athens, confounded their statesmen, struck their orators dumb, and at length argued them out of all their liberties.—Joseph Addison.

When the Face Is Beautiful.

"No face is a failure," says a writer, "which is loved by even the meanest thing alive. You may be lonely and desolate, but if your face is loved by your dog it is a magnificently triumphant success. If your face is loved by one human being then its success is more dazzling than that of a hated emperor or a loveless millionaire. The shape of your face has absolutely nothing to do with the question in point. You may be worse than ugly—that is to say, you may be plain—but if your features are dear to one or two human beings, then your features are in the highest sense of the word beautiful."

Married Chums.

"Has he any friends?" asked the judge of a prisoner in the dock. "No, only a wife," was the matter-of-fact reply of the witness. Rather hard on the wife not to be counted as her husband's friend, wasn't it? It is the perfection of marriage when a couple are real chums, as well as lovers, just as it is the perfection of parenthood when children count mother and father their real, best friends.

To Banish the Goat.

Malta's celebrated goats are likely soon to be only a memory on the historic island, for it has been found that banishing goats' milk means an end to the ravages of Malta fever. The commission appointed in 1907 to trace the origin of the fever in the garrisons and crews of warships made the discovery that the germ of the fever was present in the milk of the goat. Wherever the use of this milk has been prohibited the fever has disappeared.

INSTITUTE OF BANKING

ANNUAL CONVENTION IS NOW IN SESSION AT PROVIDENCE, R. I.

WAS ONCE AMERICAN BANK CLERKS

The Name Was Changed, However, and This Is the Sixth Meeting—Henry Clews Delivers Address Tomorrow.

Providence, R. I., July 23.—With an address of welcome by Patrick J. McCarthy, mayor of Providence, the sixth annual convention of the American Institute of Banking opens here today.

The organization was formerly known as the American Bank Clerks' Institute and its membership is largely composed of youngsters who are just beginning to scale the financial heights.

Other speakers on today's program are Prof. J. C. Menaghan, former chief of the division of consular reports in the department of commerce and labor.

Henry Clews, the prominent New York banker and financial authority, will speak tomorrow.

The convention will close Saturday evening with a banquet at which Rathbone Gardner, president of the Union Trust company, of Providence, will act as toastmaster. John T. P. Knight, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Bankers' association and manager of the Montreal Clearing House, will discuss the subject of "Matured Obligations."

He will be followed by John H. Higgins, governor of Rhode Island. O. H. Cheney, deputy superintendent of banking of New York state, will talk on "Assets." The last speaker at the banquet will be W. A. Prendergast, of New York who will speak on "Public Sentiment and Currency Reform."

The Dear Old Days.

Touched by his sad story, a Harrisburg woman recently furnished a meal to a melancholy looking hobo who had adhered thereto at the back door.

"Why do you stick out the middle finger of your left hand so straight while you are eating?" asked the compassionate woman. "Was it ever broken?"

"No, mum," answered the hobo, with a snuffle. "But during my halcyon days I wore a diamond ring on that finger, and old habits are hard to break, mum."—Harper's Weekly.

LUNATICS ALLOWED AT LARGE.

They Are a Menace to the Public, But Under No Restraint.

There are many lunatics at large right now who should either be in asylums or under restraint at home receiving the attention of physicians, says the New York Telegram. Many persons have been killed by maniacs, and relatives of the killers knew they were insane and swore to it on the witness stand at the subsequent trials. No insane person is harmless. One frequently hears it said of an eccentric person: "He's crazy, all right, but he's a harmless man." Every lunatic is a menace. It is better for him and for all his relatives that he be locked up. You never can tell what a madman will do, and if he takes human life he cannot be punished for it.

There are few persons who go up and down the face of the earth who are not acquainted with one or more lunatics. I know two crazy men who go about their business the same as other men do. One of them is single and is an egomaniac. He thinks of no one and nothing but himself. It is virtually impossible for him to talk about any subject except his business affairs and his wonderful doings. All of his acquaintances treat him indulgently and laugh at his boasts. He is quick-tempered and quarrelsome and some day he'll do some one a mischief. Then all his friends will swear that he is crazy and that they have known it for a long time and never thought he was dangerous. Insanity is in the man's family. Two of his relatives are in asylums.

The other lunatic with whom I am acquainted believes that every man's hand is against him. If you pass him on the street and fail to greet him with effusiveness you are certain to receive two or three menacing letters. If he invites you to go somewhere with him and you decline with all the politeness imaginable he will threaten to kill you.

Lengthy Lineage.

In "Leaves from the Note-Books of Lady Dorothy Nevill," recently edited by Lady Dorothy's son, Mr. Ralph Nevill, there is an amusing story of an old peer whose considerable family pride was agreeably tempered with humor.

One day he was surprised to be told by his sister that she had conceived a great affection for a well-known although somewhat eccentric man of science, who, although generally esteemed, was of very humble Semitic origin.

Not quite determined as to what course of action he should take, he sent for the prospective bridegroom with the intention of talking matters over. After some conversation, he said:

"And now, sir, I should like to know something about your family."

"I think," replied the other, "that it will be sufficient to say that I am of the descent of the illustrious blood of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob."

"Oh," said the peer, "of course our family has nothing to compare with that. If my sister likes you, you had better take her."—Youth's Companion.

Friday and the Soothsayer.

Two women who wished to make an appointment with a fortune teller who was pronounced "just splendid" by everybody who had patronized her, were advised by the seer to come on Friday.

"That is, if you are not superstitious about Friday," she said. "Most people are. They regard Friday as such an unlucky day that they won't even have their fortune told them for fear they will hear something unlucky. That is why I advise you to come on that day. I will have plenty of time, and won't have to put your cases through with such a rush."

FALL AT FEET OF PRIEST

Plasterers Drop 50 Feet While Mass Is Being Celebrated.

St. Louis, July 23.—As children were singing a requiem during morning mass at the new St. Francis de Sales church two workmen fell fifty feet to the ground, near the feet of Rev. Fr. Hoiweck, who was celebrating the mass, and one was killed and the other probably fatally injured.

Joseph Babin, 30 years old, died instantly. His skull was crushed. Robert Powers, 24 years old, sustained serious bruises and internal injuries. The two men were plasterers and their scaffold broke.

Lucky Herdman.

A curious legend attaches to the discovery of the marble of which Ephesus was built. The rams of a herdman named Píxodoros fought whilst feeding on the hill. One of them—in the contest—with his horn, broke the crust of the whitest marble. The peasant running to his Ephesian fellow-citizens with the specimen, his prize was resolved with applause, and his name was changed to "Evangelus—Giver of Glad Tidings," and the stone being excavated for Diana's Temple divine honors were subsequently paid to him!

Will Interest Wives.

A Brooklyn wife has found a new way to make her recalcitrant husband disgorge a portion of his earnings. He was $15 shy on his feed bill and refused to come to the center. Then she got a strangle hold on his windpipe and extracted his store teeth. These she kept for ransom until the half-starved man was forced to produce the amount.

CHURCH HAS A BET ON TAFT

Will Get $1,000 if Bryan Loses Race for President.

Trenton, July 23.—The Third Presbyterian church of this city is to receive $1,000 for its organ fund if W. J. Bryan is defeated for the presidency.

Last spring, when the Rev. J. A. Weisley was on his way to the Presbyterian general assembly at Kansas City, he met an enthusiastic admirer of Bryan, who promised to give $1,000 to the church's organ fund if Bryan failed to be elected.

Mr. Weisley did not think proper to formally accept an offer of that kind, but he has not forgotten that it was made.

Glasgow for His.

"This orange marmalade comes from Scotland," said a grocer. "Nice—on the Riviera, you know—also turns out a marmalade."

"I visited the Riviera last winter. The sewage of Nice runs into the blue Mediterranean, and you can see it floating on the sunlit water, with gulls swarming about it like great flies."

"Sometimes it is washed ashore. You study it from the Promenade des Anglais—cabbage tops, bottle-wrappers of straw, orange skins, lemon skins, soft green masses of vegetable refuse."

"And day by day Nice men patrol the shore, selecting from the garbage all the orange skins, which they thrust into large burlap bags."

"Will you have the Nice or the Glasgow marmalade? The Glasgow? Thank you, sir."

Crow Destroyed Pheasant Eggs.

A party of boys while hunting for flowers discovered a pheasant's nest on the farm owned by Albert Hackett, north of this village, a few days ago. They visited the locality of the nest daily to see when the mother bird would begin to set, as at that time the eggs in the nest numbered 13.

The other day when some of the party made the visit, a crow was found in possession of the nest, and when it was driven away it was discovered that each pheasant's egg had been punctured by the crow's bill and the contents sucked out, so that nothing but shells were in the nest.—Manchester Correspondent Rochester Herald.

CHAUTAUQUA WILL HEAR LECTURE FROM A CELEBRATED CHURCHMAN.

THE CLEVELAND LADIES EXCELLENT

They and Miss Mosier, a Vocalist, Entertained Large Crowd Last Night—Tomorrow Afternoon Gov. Johnson, of Minnesota

An increasing interest marks every session of the Sedalia Chautauqua. Last night the largest crowd of the season was present to hear Miss Mosier, of New York, and the Cleveland Ladies' orchestra.

Miss Mosier is a singer of marked ability, and delighted the audience with her singing. Her rich soprano voice and attractive personality won for her many friends.

At 8:30 the Cleveland Ladies' orchestra arrived and for an hour and a half charmed the great audience.

It was a very select audience that gathered to hear them, but the musicians were more than equal to all requirements and every one was loud in their praise of the evening's entertainment. Although Sedalia has been treated to the best concert orchestras in America, none of them have more completely won the people than the Cleveland ladies last night. The public appreciates the efforts of Mr. Bartell in presenting such high class entertainments at his Chautauqua.

This evening's entertainment is to be something in a different line, but equally as good. Marvin Williams, the Georgia humorist, gives a prelude entertainment at 7:30, and at 8 o'clock Bishop McDowell, of the M. E. church, will speak on "Life and the Bible."

Bishop McDowell is one of America's foremost churchmen and lecturers and those who hear him will be pleased.

Dr. J. M. Kersey will have charge of the Bible study at 10:20 each morning.

Tomorrow at 2 p. m. Governor Johnson will speak on "The Majesty of the Law."

Governor Johnson's life reads like a romance. The struggles of a poor boy against tremendous odds and his marvelous success and victory is a story that inspires the heart of every poor boy in America. Don't fail to hear this celebrated man tomorrow afternoon.

The patrons are gratified to know that the Chautauqua is so well patronized and so highly appreciated, for we want the Chautauqua made a permanent institution here. The remaining days of the Chautauqua are full of rare treats. And though we do not understand how it can be, the management assures us the better end of the program is yet to be given. The management desires to state that all the people who participate in tonight's entertainment are in the city and that there will be no waiting for their arrival, as was the case last night.

The ceremony took place at the summer home of the Walshes.

ARSON BY NIGHT RIDERS

RAILWAY ISSUES RADICAL ORDERS AFTER BURNING OF STATIONS.

THREE BURNED AT THE SAME TIME

Kentuckians Resent the Presence of Troops Along the Hopkinsville-Princeton Division of the Illinois Central.

Hopkinsville, Ky., July 23.—As a result of the destruction of three of their depots by night riders Tuesday night, the Illinois Central railroad last afternoon issued orders that no trains should be run on the Hopkinsville-Princeton division last night.

Strict orders were also issued to all crews that all bridges and trestles should be carefully examined before the trains should pass over. No reason was given for these radical orders, but the road is supposed to be in possession of information which further threatens their property.

Three of the four depots belonging to the company between Hopkinsville and Princeton, a distance of thirty-one miles, were destroyed by night riders Tuesday night. These depots were located at Gracy in Christian county, Cerulan Springs, in Trigg county, and Otter Pond, in Caldwell county. At each place the destruction was accomplished by a small band of night riders, the three fires starting at the same time.

The only depot which was not destroyed is at Cobb, between Cerulan Springs and Otter Pond. This was probably passed by on account of a detachment of soldiers from the Madisonville county having established camp there.

These soldiers, with the permission of the railroad officials, had pitched their camp upon the railroad right of way at Cobb. There has been strong opposition to the presence of soldiers in that section, and recently when a detachment from here rode through that part of the country and stopped there for a rest, they were ordered away. This is believed to be the reason why the railroad was made to suffer Tuesday night.

The officer in charge of that section has been ordered by Governor Willson to take what action he sees fit.

Sometimes It Is Hard Enough.

"One great trouble," said the distinguished foreigner, "is that it is too easy to get divorced in this country." "My dear sir," replied the thoughtful American, "I am afraid you have jumped at a conclusion. You have never been married to any of our women whose one object in life was to go a little faster than their neighbors, have you?"

Old Gloves.

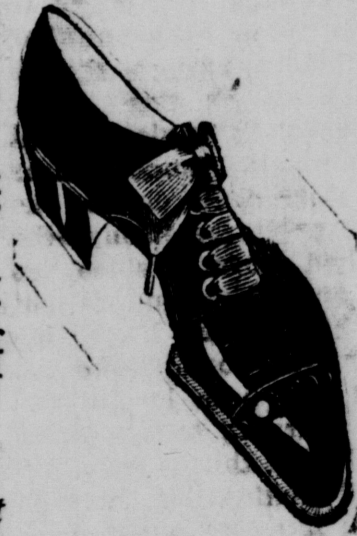

They have about 50 or 60 kid gloves at the ticket office down at Union station, gray sueded, undressed kids—every old kind. But the trouble is that among them all there is not one pair. They are all odd gloves, mostly "lefts." You see most men carry their money in their left-hand pockets, and when they're buying railroad tickets, they take off the left glove. Then when they go away and leave the glove the boys in the ticket office are no better off than if they had left nothing behind but an air of mystery.

"It's surprising, too," they say at the ticket office, "how many men have one or two fingers missing. Out of the lot of old gloves now there, a dozen or more have at least one finger gone. The ticket sellers watch for men who have fingers missing and try to match them up with gloves that correspond. With that exception, most of the gloves go to waste.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Utilizing Sun's Rays.

The usual method of using solar heat has been to concentrate the sun's rays by mirrors, but in the simpler apparatus with which Frank Shuman has been experimenting at Tacoma, Pa., the direct rays have been made to heat a boiler of blackened pipe coils inclosed in a shallow box with a double glass top. An air space of one inch between the two layers of glass forms a jacket preventing escape of heat by radiation. Water in the pipes generated steam with a pressure of 15 pounds, which was made to drive an engine, and by employing either a pressure of 90 pounds was reached. In warm climates a good working pressure is expected from water, thus solving the perplexing power problem of tropical lands.

FISH A FRIEND OF HUMANITY.

Australian Species That Feeds on Larvae of Mosquitoes.

That most animals have some specific function to perform is well known.
Now, scientists claim that a species of fish exists in Australian waters which feeds on the larvae of mosquitoes and so reduces the prospects of malaria.

It belongs to a family of carnivorous, of flesh-eating, fish which is frequently found in the temperate and tropic zone, and usually in shallow water.

Very small in size, being only about 1 1/2 or two inches in length, it has, in the male, yellow and black-striped fins, while the eye is of a bright blue. The fins during certain seasons of the year acquire great brilliancy.—London Answers.

Explaining the Ghost.

The most popular creature in theatrical circles is "the ghost," and the ghost is said "to walk" when salaries are paid. The credit for originating this phrase belongs to a company of English strolling players who, although their salaries had long been in arrears, were rehearsing "Hamlet."
The rehearsal progressed, but when Hamlet, referring to the ghost, exclaimed "Perchance 'twill walk again," that sordid spirit yelled back again emphatically: "No! I'm damned if the ghost walks any more until our salaries are paid!"—Bohemian.

June at a loss of $23,829, according to the June statement, which was issued by the company yesterday.

During May, when the company

STEWART'S LOT IS HARD

A BROTHER DEFENDS U. S. ARMY OFFICER AT FORT GRANT, OUT IN ARIZONA.

VICTIM OF TEDDY'S DISPLEASURE

Criminals Better Housed and Fed, He Declares, Than Victim of Order, Which Aims at Forcing Him to Resign.

Washington, July 22.—That convicted criminals are better housed, better fed and generally better cared for than is Col. W. F. Stewart, Coast artillery, U. S. A., assigned to isolated service at Fort Grant, Ariz., a deserted army post, is asserted in a public letter written by Charles Stewart, a brother of the army officer.

Col. Stewart was sent to Fort Grant on the ground that he has an ungovernable temper was tyrannical to enlisted men and discourteous to civilians. He is kept there in the hope, presumably, that he will be forced, by the hardship of his situation, to comply with the president's demand for his retirement.

Mr. Stewart considers the "sentence" inhuman and unjustified if his brother were guilty of the worst of crimes. He furthermore defends his brother's character and record, and declares the allegations against him are not in accord with the facts.

Describing the conditions under which Col. Stewart exists at Fort Grant, his brother says the temperature is 117 degrees in the shade; that the buildings are tumbling to pieces; that venomous reptiles and insects infest the place, and that the "prisoner" has companionship only of a negro and a sick white man.

Idleness under this condition of practical "solitary confinement," says
Mr. Stewart, is a heavy punishment for a man convicted of no crime. He declares the situation has been created by the influence of a fellow officer and civilians with political pulls.

Col. Stewart is second in rank in the Coast artillery corps, and next December will be the ranking officer.
He will not reach the age of retirement for several years.

WAS BABE BURIED ALIVE?

Mother and Daughter Arrested on Serious Charge.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 23.—Alleged by neighbors to have buried the late's new-born babe in the back yard while it was yet alive, Mrs.
Kate Powell, of No. 5133 Fumiston street, and her 21-year-old daughter, Anna, were arrested yesterday, after the body of the child had been dis-interred from a flower bed.

Neighbors wrote to the coroner that they had heard the child cry when it was being buried, but this the women deny. They admit having buried it, but say that the child was born dead and they disposed of the body in that manner to avoid disgrace and to save funeral expenses.

The women are held pending an autopsy to determine whether or not the child was alive when buried.

ren yesterday killed R. H. Smith, wounded Lamb's young son.

RUMBLINGS OF THE RAIL

KATY TO HAVE A BOAT LINE FOR BENEFIT OF MONEGAW SPRINGS TRAFFIC.

COACH, CAB AND CABOOSE ITEMS

Matters of Interest Picked Up From Various Sources for the Benefit of Democrat-Sentinel Readers.

Osceola is no longer to be the sole water gate to Monegaw, according to the Schell City Review, which says that for some time the M. K. & T. has been figuring on a way to connect passenger service from their main line to Monegaw Springs.

The Monegaw Townsite Co. have advertised this resort until it is becoming famous, and the Katy is being besieged to arrange a passenger service to that place.

A. C. Miner, of Sedalia, general passenger agent for this division of the M. K. & T. was in Schell City with a view of establishing a boat line from that place on the Osage river to Monegaw.

He was to meet a Mr. Mitchell, of Joplin, who had offered to place a seventy-five passenger launch on the river, and to make a contract to carry the Katy passengers. Together they went over the proposed route.

The Osage river is navigable from Schell to Monegaw with the exception of a couple of places at low water time, and it is their intention of deepening the shoals, which could be done at very little expense.

Mr. Miner stated that this is the most feasible route and the idea would no doubt be carried out.

Kingdon Could Go West.

Kingdon Gould, son of President George Gould, of the Missouri Pacific, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon from New York, says today's St. Louis Globe-Democrat. He was accompanied by Prof. Kemp, of the School of Mines of Columbia University and two eastern friends.

The party came west in a private car of the Missouri Pacific and will leave early this morning for Colorado over that line. They were met at union station by M. C. Markham, assistant to Vice President Clarke, and later they visited the Missouri Pacific general offices on Market street.

The Colorado mines will be inspected and the party will spend the vacation weeks in the west looking over the mineral properties generally.

Grievance of Switchmen.

Grand Master Frank Hawley, of the Switchmen's union, came here today from Buffalo to join the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western grievance committee in adjusting the differences with General Superintendent Clarke, of the Lackawanna railroad over the discharge of crews on the Buffalo and other division for refusal to work short handed, contrary to an agreement, says a Scranton, Pa., dispatch.

A meeting with Supt. Clarke is expected to be held at once, and the switchmen say if no more satisfaction is obtained then was accorded the sub-committee last week, the whole grievance board will leave for New York and request an audience with President Trustadale. The situation here is regarded as acute.

Strike Breakers in Shops.

Thirteen nonunion boiler makers were placed at work in the Big Four shops at Mattoon, Ill., yesterday, and the action is expected to result in a strike.

One week ago sixty boilermakers and helpers went on strike in the Mattoon shops because of the introduction of the piece work system.

A committee of strikers met with the officials of the company at Indianapolis on Monday. The company refused to return to the old system and pay by the hour, and today put strike breakers in the places of the men who are out.

Canadian Shopmen May Strike.

The shop men of the Canadian Pacific railway in Western Canada are dissatisfied with the recent findings of the conciliation board that investigated the matters in dispute between the company and the men, and yesterday T. McVey, head of the mechanics in the shops in Western Canada went to Chicago to consult with officials of the American Federation of Labor with a view of securing assistance should a struggle result. Ten thousand men are affected.

Bert Wright, an M. K. & T. trainman, and family, went to Kansas City last night for a two weeks' visit.

J. W. Chandler, Missouri Pacific roadmaster, went west on No. 37 this morning on company business.

Master Mechanic M. J. McGraw, of the Missouri Pacific, left last night for Bloomington, Ill., called by the death of his aunt, Mrs. Edward Payes, and will not be at his office again until Monday.

Only One Patient Now.

D. T. Carlisle, of Petersburg, Ind., is the only victim of the Missouri Pacific collision near Knobnoster who is still confined at the M. K. & T. railway hospital.

Mr. Carlisle suffered from a badly torn left heel and fracture of the right ankle, and will possibly be confined to the institution for several months.

He refuses to leave the hospital until he is entirely cured.

Three-Cent Fare Restored.

The Minneapolis & Manitoba railway has served notice on the Minnesota state railroad commission that, beginning August 1, it will charge a passenger rate of 3 cents a mile thus ignoring the 2-cent fare law.

This is considered a forerunner of similar action on the part of all the smaller roads of the state.

Pass Reported Stolen.

An annual pass issued to Assistant Engineer J. P. Dunn, of the Missouri Pacific, has been reported stolen, and today an order was given to conductors to take up the same if it is presented and wire immediately company headquarters a description of the party holding the pass, together with his destination.

Must First Get Permission.

An official order, signed by H. L. Turton, foreman of the shops of the Missouri Pacific, was issued at local headquarters today, prohibiting engineers from exchanging runs at Kansas City without permission from the company.

Automatic Couplers.

W. F. Egan, an M. K. & T. switchman, is off from work.

Roy Lierman, a Missouri Pacific fireman, is on the sick list.

E. M. Dennis, Missouri Pacific trainmaster, is at Jefferson City today on business.

N. J. Finney, M. K. & T. superintendent, was a southbound passenger on train No. 3 today.

O. A. Conkle, a Missouri Pacific brakeman, is laying off on account of a contused right side.

W. B. Shirk, commercial agent for the Missouri Pacific, went to Versailles on the noon train today.

James Riley, electrical engineer for the M. K. & T. at Denison, Tex., is here today on company business.

Superintendent A. J. Alexander, of the Missouri Pacific, was an incoming passenger on train No. 2 today.

A. C. Miner, of the traveling passenger department of the M. K. & T., returned this forenoon from Pleasant Hill.

L. C. Marshall, assistant engineer of the Missouri Pacific, left at midnight last night for a business trip to St. Louis.

S. G. Quinlisk, an M. K. & T. section foreman, is a new patient at the company hospital, having been admitted last night.

Mrs. C. G. Smith, matron at the M. K. & T. railway station, has in her possession a cactus in full bloom, a sight seldom seen.

T. L. Harkness, paymaster for the Missouri Pacific in a special car, came in from St. Louis on the train No. 9 this morning.

Missouri Pacific engine No. 856 is being broke in between Sedalia and Tipton today, Engineer Ellis and Conductor Gibson being in charge.

Albert Rankin, traveling auditor for the Katy, returned this afternoon from a business visit at St. Louis.

Earl Eckhoff, caller for the M. K. & T., is temporarily acting as night ticket agent for the Katy, while the regular agent is visiting in St. Louis.

E. M. Alvord, general superintendent of the M. K. & T., in special car No. 49, passed through Sedalia on No. 2 this morning, en route to St. Louis.

The M. K. & T. has installed a derailler at a point 150 feet north of the Windsor cut-off, and trainmen and engineers are cautioned to be on the lookout for it.

J. W. Higgins, assistant general manager of the Missouri Pacific, in special car No. 100, passed through Sedalia on train No. 22 today en route to St. Louis.

Jack May has resigned his position at Franklin, Pa., and left this afternoon for Mina, Colo., to accept the foremanship of a roundhouse after visiting Sedalia friends.

Henry Otten and M. R. Scobee, M. K. & T. train dispatchers, are doubling at the local offices as a result of one of the regular dispatchers being summoned away from the city.

J. B. Walsh, an M. K. & T. train dispatcher, summoned to Vinita as a witness in a lawsuit, who was detained Tuesday night, left for that place on Katy flyer No. 5, this morning.

Kingdon Gould, son of George Gould, president of the Gould system, in special car, "A 1," passed through Sedalia on Missouri Pacific train No. 1 this afternoon, on his way to Colorado.

J. T. Westbrook, Missouri Pacific roadmaster, returned this afternoon from a business visit at points on the S. W. & S. W. line, on which route not a single derailment has occurred during the last six months, according to the roadmaster.

"Jim" Walsh, M. K. & T. superintendent at Parsons, Kan., has installed a patent switch stand at the north leg of the "Y" on the Sedalia main line north of Parsons, and reports from trainmen and engineers as to how it is standing trial are asked for.

Dr. George E. McNeil, of the M. K. & T. hospital staff, is slowly convalescing from an illness which his brother, Dr. Charles McNeil, is unable to diagnose. Although troublesome, the sickness did not compel the physician to take to his bed.

EARL DONOHUE HURT
Grew Homesick After an Injury in Kansas City.

When Earl Donohue, 13 years old, the son of Edward Donohue, of Sedalia, ran away from home two weeks ago, he decided that hopping trains was far superior to going swimming with his playmates at home. But early yesterday morning, when he slipped off a moving passenger train in the east bottoms and was badly bruised by the rough cinders, he announced to Dr. Padk Neal that he was ready to go home.—Kansas City Times.

Earl Donohue is only 12 years old, and his mother, Mrs. Mary Donohue, is employed as head waitress at the Antlers hotel.

A GIRL OF 18 BEHEADED

SLAYER OF FIANCE RECEIVED FEUDAL PUNISHMENT IN SAXONY.

THE CRUEL CRIME OF A YOUNG GIRL

The Headsman Went to Small Town, Put on a Dress Suit, Did His Work in an Artistic Manner and Departed.

Freiburg, Saxony, July 22.—Grete Feiler, the 18-year-old daughter of the mayor of Freiberg, was beheaded last night in punishment for the murder of the man to whom she was engaged to be married.

The executioner of this young woman reached the city Tuesday night. He carried a thin, long box containing the ax with which he did his work, and also brought with him a handbag with a suit of evening clothes. The wearing of this garb is an official requirement of the somber occasion. The preparations for the execution of the death sentence at the prison had been completed and the man did his work quickly and privately and departed from Freiberg as quietly as he came.

The executioner is an anonymous person sent here from Dresden on the announcement that the king of Saxony had refused to pardon Grete Feiler for her crime.

The personality of this young girl and her thoughtfully arranged murder of her fiancé, a civil engineer named Pfeffer, attracted international attention. The social position of her family was good when she became engaged to Herr Pfeffer, a rich young professional man.

At her trial it was brought out, and she admitted with the utmost simplicity, that she visited her fiancé's house one evening, gave him cyanide of potassium in a drink she mixed for him, and then to make sure of his death, shot him in the mouth with his own revolver.

She then dropped the weapon at the dead man's side, placed a forged will in her favor on his desk, together with a note of good-bye, also forged, saying that he feared to lose her love through the revelation of a dishonorable liaison.

In addition to these papers the young girl also left behind a package of forged letters, purporting to come from a woman in Italy, accusing Pfeffer of desertion and threatening to tell Grete everything.

The forgeries were so skillfully done that they deceived the police and coroner. Grete fell under suspicion about a month after the crime, through a love letter that she wrote to an unworthy man hinting at what she had done. This letter was found in the man's pocket when he was arrested for a misdemeanor.

NOT TO SUPREME COURT
The Twenty-Five Million Case Can Not Go to Highest Tribunal.

New York, July 23.—It was learned today through sources identified with the Standard Oil company that the $29,240,000 case will not likely go to the supreme court of the United States, nor will it be tried before Judge Landis again.

The issues involve no constitutional questions necessary to take the action to the supreme court.

ODD NAMES OF BRITISH INNS.
Tourist Recorded Some That Were Especially Striking.

The little inns which we passed going from London to Scotland, and even the wine shops, gloried in the pretentious names which were generally displayed in illustrated signs hanging on brackets. We had great fun in watching these old signs and writing down some of the most unusual. "We passed 'The Red Bull,' and in neighboring proximity 'The Red Cow' and 'The Dun Cow.' Sir John Barleycorn" was near enough to hear "The Five Bells," and just beyond this, as if not to be outdone in the bell line, the proprietor of one inn called his place "The Ring o' Bells." Later we passed "The Easy Chair" and "Wait for the Wagon." "The Nag's Head," "The Spread Eagle," and down near the end of the list we had recorded "The Black Boy" and "The Head, Hand and Stomach."—Frank Presbrey in Outing Magazine.

Easy to Kill Flies.
A screen for electrocuting flies is easily made and offers a source of much amusement. A device of this description was made by a Chicago man and was found to work admirably. The screen was made with the wires running in one direction connected to one terminal of a small dynamo and the cross wires connected to the other terminal. The two sets of wires were insulated from each other. As soon as the legs of the fly come in contact with the wires of the screen the insect stiffens out and dies instantly and painlessly.

MAY SWING LABOR VOTE

CLARK, OF FLORIDA, SURE DEMOCRATS WILL GET ALL THE UNIONS.

HAVE CONFIDENCE IN MR. GOMPERS

Federation's Editorial Looked Upon as Hard Blow at Republicans, Whom It Will Cost Thousands of Votes.

Washington July 23.—Representative Frank Clark, of Florida, secretary of the democratic congressional committee, who arrived here Tuesday night, expressed confidence yesterday that the call to arms issued by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, would swing the great bulk of the labor vote into the democratic column.

"Democrats are highly pleased with Mr. Gompers' editorial," said Representative Clark "and, despite opposition statements, there is little doubt that the vast majority of laboring men will vote with the democrats this fall. Mr. Gompers' attitude will wield an immense influence. I can also say, from reports at hand, that we are going to poll the bulk of the negro vote in the doubtful states."

Senator Dick, of Ohio, ranking republican politician in Washington, who is soon to go on the stump for Taft, when asked yesterday about the lambasting Gompers gave his party, said:

"Mr. Gompers doubtless has a great influence with labor people, which should not be underestimated. He was unanimously elected as the head of the combined federations, and of course, is a power."

It is probable that President Gompers' editorial, in which he flays the republican party for its attitude toward the working classes, will be incorporated in the democratic campaign book. Representative Clark said the matter probably would be discussed upon the return of Chairman Lloyd to Washington Sunday.
